Farm and Household.

How to Raise Turkeys.

Turkey should not be bred in-and-in longer than two or three years, when a change of males is necessary. Hens about a year old are best for breeding, but they often lay 40 or 50 eggs before setting. Older hens lay less. Remove the eggs daily, leaving a china egg in the nest. All that are to be allowed to set, should hatch by the first of June. Every young turkey under four weeks old should be gathered to its fold before sundown and shut in. Learn them to be gentle, so that you can pick them up and put them under their mother's wings, if necessary. "When hatching," says a writer on turkeys, "remove the shells from the nest, and allow them to remain twenty-four hours after hatching before feeding. For the first two or three days I keep them on the old nest, as it is warm throughout, and feed on thick custard, with a proportion of one part egg and the other new milk. I keep them on this feed for nearly a week, and allow little or no run for them and then only in the warmer portion of the day. Keep them clean, dry and warm (for they will bear a goodly amount of heat), well fed, and they will quiet and repay you for this extra care, that at the first outlook may appear like foolishness, but it is not. When they are about a week old I begin to wean them away from custard and introduce whole buckwheat and allow more run. When commencing to feed buckwheat, do not forget to furnish water for beverage, or thick, sour milk, and clam or oyster shells broken fine. The old-fashioned idea of raising turkeys on corn alone, and allowing them to range from one end of the farm to the other, has exploded."

Soap.

Every housewife who attends to her domestic duties always has home-made soap for washing purposes, and as many of them find much trouble in making this necessary article of home consumption, we will tell them how to avoid all difficulty in soap making in the future. All that is necessary to lay in a supply of good soap is to take a barrel, keg or stand, that will not leak, place in it your soap grease and pour over it a quantity of lye. Let it stand, and stir it occasionally. If there is too much grease for the lye you have poured on, add more lye, and if there is too much lye, add more grease. In the course of a week or two you will have as fine soap as you wish. No one need be without soap who will follow these instructions. It is time and labor wasted to put on a pot and boil lye to make soap. We know what we are talking about, and if any doubt it, all they have to do to prove that we are correct, is to try it.

VALUE OF POULTRY.—If farmers who think poultry do not pay would give their feathered stock to their sons and daughters, with permission to own and enjoy any profit that might accrue from keeping them, they would soon be convinced that "there is something in it."

There certainly is no more health-promoting exercise than that afforded by caring for, or having the management of a flock of poultry, and if the flock is one of the pure breeds, there is, in addition to the exhilarating influence, an enthusiasm that causes what might otherwise be considered a task, to become a pleasure—and therefore profit and a pleasure are combined. A young lady in Bethel, Pa., during the year of 1874, kept a strict account of all expenditures for feed, etc., for her yard of fowls, and at the regular market prices for eggs and chickens, and she cleared above all expenses, $360, besides having more stock on hand than she started with. Is not this an incentive sufficient to awaken an interest among the numerous fair readers of the farmer in favor of gallinaceous stock? It is certainly worthy of emulation.—Maryland Farmer.

Texas beef is sold for fourteen cents a pound in London, but in Galveston it is fifteen cents. It is cheaper for Texans to go to London to buy their Texas beef.

To Restore Rancid Butter.

There is no need of either selling or using rancid butter, owing to the fact that it may be easily restored to as good and perhaps a better condition than that which characterized it when entirely fresh. No matter how strong, proper management in the plan we are now going to set forth will make it all right, every time.

Place in a clean barrel, three pounds of fresh unsalted butter, and pour over it twenty gallons of pure cold water. Let it remain one day, stirring occasionally, then let it stand ten or twelve hours without stirring to give it a chance to settle. At the end of this time pour or draw off the clear liquid and strain through three thickness of fine domestic muslin. Place into a clean barrel and it is ready for the rancid butter.

Cut the butter in thin slices—as thin as you can cut it conveniently, and place it directly into the lime water. Put in as much water as will cover, then place over it a clean, floating lid and weight down sufficiently to prevent any butter from being exposed to the air. Keep it in this condition about forty-eight hours, stirring three times a day with a clean stick.

At the end of this time the butter will have lost its rancid condition, the lime having completely neutralized the acid. The solution should now be drawn from the barrel, and its place supplied with pure cold water, to stand undisturbed for six hours. Next day take out the butter, let drain an hour or so, then re-work and re-salt exactly after the manner of managing new butter.

This process will leave the butter quite white, and, therefore, if for the market, you will need to color it, which you can do with a preparation of annatto, now sold for the purpose in most drug stores.

If you desire to convert the butter restored as above into a first-class article, fully up to the best "Goshen," you will take any fifty pounds of it, which you will place into a revolving churn with six gallons of new milk and a pint of juice pressed from carrots. No other than a revolving churn will answer, for the hardness of the butter will prevent the motion of a dasher. Start the churn briskly and keep it going for half an hour, after which take out and handle the same as new butter. No other coloring is needed—the carrot juice will have imparted to it a rich yellow color. It will also have added to the flavor, making the flavor resemble that of new butter in every particular.—Journal of Progress.

Singular Property of Tomato Leaves.

"I planted a peach orchard," writes M. Sirov, of the Society of Horticulture, Valparaiso, "and the trees grew well and strongly. They had just commenced to bud when they were invaded by the curculio (pulgon) which insects were followed, as frequently happens, by ants. Having cut some tomatoes, the idea occurred to me that by placing some of the leaves around the trunks and branches of peach trees, I might preserve them from the rays of the sun, which was very powerful. My surprise was great upon the following day to find the trees entirely freed from their enemies; not one remained; except here and there, where a curled leaf prevented the tomato from exercising its influence. These leaves I carefully unrolled, placing upon them fresh ones from the tomato vine, with result of banishing the last insect and enabling the trees to grow with luxuriance. Wishing to carry still further my experiment, I stepped in water some fresh leaves of the tomato, and sprinkled with this infusion other plants, roses and oranges. In two days these were also free from the innumerable insects which covered them, and felt sure that, had I used the same means with my melon patch, I should have met with the result. I therefore deem it a duty I owe to the Society of Horticulture to make known this singular and useful property of tomato leaves."

The disadvantages of wearing false hair were painfully illustrated at Millersville, Pa., the other day. A boat in which to young men were passengers, capsized suddenly, and one of two ladies sank out of sight. As she reappeared, one of the men grasped her hat, which came off. The lady sank, and on her second appearance fared no better, for this time the frightened youth caught her by her hair, which, being false, came off in his hands, and down she went again. At last, however, she was caught by her real hair and dragged aboard the boat, after having had what may properly be called a hair-breadth escape.

CERATED

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Disordered Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm.

The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are constipated, sometimes alternating with laxity; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part.

There is generally a considerable loss of energy, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weakness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low, and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the liver to have been extensively enlarged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all Bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequalled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS are never sugar coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist on your druggist or storekeeper giving you the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Sold by all respectable druggists and country storekeepers generally.

To those wishing to give DR. C. McLANE'S Liver Pills, we will send a full copy of the United States, one box of Pills for twenty-five cents.
